CZAR NICHOLAS, ACCUSED OF APPROVING CRIMES OF THE RUSSIAN POLICE

The eyes of Europe have been drawn again to the unending march of political prisoners in Russia to the gallows and to the penitentiaries by the assertion that Emperor Nicholas not only knows all the atrocities perpetrated in his name by the police, but that he approves of them. This charge was made in a Socialistic paper, the Vorwarts, of Berlin, which published what purported to be a facsimile of a special handwritten newspaper issued only for the czar's information and containing plain details of all the things done by the police in the name of the czar. It has frequently been asserted heretofore that the Russian ruler is ignorant of the conditions existing in his empire and has been kept uninformed purposely by his officials. According to the revolutionist who gave the czar's newspaper to the Vorwarts, "the journal gives an exact description of the system of spying, of police methods of provoking disorders and of all the bloody acts of violence which occur in Russia."

The same raiding party, composed of Sergeant O'Leary, Liquor Agent Wagner and Patrolmen Dooley and Connor, that made the arrests at O'Connor's saloon, arrived in front of Angelo Stavalo's saloon at 35 Hallett street just in time to catch Frank Buschko coming forth carrying several bottles of beer beneath his coat. "AIN'T IT AWFUL MABEL" CANFIELD

Sixteen - Year - Old Girl
Blames Stepmother for Leaving Her Home

SENT TO STATE SCHOOL

Alleging that her step-mother told her not to come home Mabel Canfield, the 16-year-old daughter of Frederick R. Canfield of 307 Brooks street, ran away and has been living with a friend Lizzie Taylor of 67 Cedar street, for the past two weeks. Last Friday Mabel ran into the tailor shop of David Burgess at 43 Centre avenue, and asked if she might take the bicycle standing outside, as she was in a hurry to get a doctor for her sick mother. Burgess let her take the wheel, but when night came and it had not been returned, he reported the matter to the Second Precinct station. The girl was found at her friend's home on Saturday night and arrested. Mr. Canfield, who is employed by the Union Metallic Cartridge Co., married a second time, his first wife having died a few years ago. According to the story Mabel told her mother, she found her life has not been a happy one since the advent of the step-mother. For the last six months she has been in the custody of the State Industrial School for Girls for her minority.

OUTING OF YOST MEN BIG SUCCESS

How Saturday Afternoon and Sunday Were Passed

NATATORIAL EXHIBITION

One of the most enjoyable outings ever indulged in by the officers and foremen of the Yost Typewriter Factory of the Union Typewriter Co., of this city took place Saturday and yesterday.

The outing consisted of a fishing and otherwise pleasure trip on the shores of Long Island. The party was conveyed to the fishing grounds in Huntington Bay by three boats, "The Harp," a forty foot sloop, Capt. Moser, "The Fishing Launch," Capt. Moser, "The Fishing Launch," Capt. Moser, and the open launch "The Fishing Launch," Capt. Moser. The party left the head of Black Rock Harbor from the factory wharf at ten o'clock Saturday morning. The journey over was exceedingly pleasant, the day being ideally beautiful, and the sound as calm as the proverbial "mill pond."

Huntington Bay was reached at 1 o'clock when bathing and fishing was enjoyed until 5 o'clock, when the party made for Northport, where dinner was served at the Northport House at 5 o'clock. During the dinner songs and glees were well and generously rendered by the visitors, adding to the general enjoyment of the other guests of the hotel, as well as their own party. After dinner a tour of Northport was made.

At 11 o'clock the bells were rung for retiring and the party returned to the hotel, where rooms had been engaged. All members were called at 5 o'clock Sunday morning for the purpose of enjoying a fishing cruise before breakfast, which was served at the hotel at 9 o'clock. After breakfast was dispatched and a little while to obtain the New York morning papers the party again took to their boats and returned to the fishing grounds further down the bay. While here G. C. Wright, the company's chief draftsman, took several very interesting and amusing pictures of the party and some of their fishing incidents.

After some two hours of fishing, a change of program was suggested and A. E. Veness, superintendent, and his brother, R. B. Veness, were requested to give a display of real and ornamental swimming, floating and diving, an art in which both are very expert exponents. R. B. Veness, a past president of the Western Counties Amateur Swimming Association of Great Britain, and at present one of the Vice Presidents of the National Association of Swimming, was accompanied by the medallion and certificate of honor by the Royal Life Saving Society, of which King Edward is President.

The program was opened with a very exciting one hundred yard race which was won by R. B. Veness. The swimming contest was won by A. E. Veness, who in this same connection gave an exhibition of a deep dive into twenty feet of water, bringing to the surface a portion of the bottom of Long Island Sound. The brothers then gave a very artistic display of floating, performing many different evolutions and completing their program with a most instructive display of the methods of rescuing drowning persons. R. B. Veness being the party demonstrating and taking the part of the life saver, while A. E. Veness took the part of the drowning person, and incidentally gave his younger brother quite a tussle. The demonstration of how to release oneself from the clutch of a drowning person was exceedingly well shown. Mr. Veness giving the death-like clutch around the neck upon his brother, who in turn very forcefully and very cleverly released himself. Both being nearly exhausted at the close of the performance as the result of their strenuous exhibition of this feat, then finished up with defining how easy one can recover from being exhausted while still in the water.

About this time the severe storm of yesterday came up and the party considered it best to make tracks for home. The sail across the Sound and into Bridgeport was an extremely delightful one, favored as they were by the splendid still breeze which succeeded the storm.

The run home as well as out was freely interspersed with glees and part songs rendered by the entire party, varied by many delightful musical renderings from the graphophones, so kindly provided for the occasion by Harry Cooper, foreman of the party. G. C. Wright also took several very interesting and difficult photos of the party in mid-sound, cleverly getting into some of the groups all three boats with parties on each boat, which with an enamel camera was no small feat both on the part of the shippers and the boats as well as the photographer.

The party arrived at their dock at the head of Black Rock Harbor at 4:30 in the evening, having had a thoroughly good time, thanks to the following very hard working and efficient committee, who met with generous support from all members of the party. M. J. Clabby, chairman; R. Mueller and F. Willard, secretary and treasurer.

Upon arriving off Fayerweather's Island they learned that the Yost baseball team had won their game with the Newfields on Saturday afternoon, and gave three luscious cheers for the base ball boys of whom they are all so proud. The members of the party had indulged in a swash of grapefruit and the scene of the game. As soon as the result was learned, it was found that Herbert Johnson was the only member of the party who had given the score, correctly as 3 to 3 in favor of the Yost. He therefore took the pool. Owing to the interest in the event, this being the first independent game played by the baseball boys, arrangements had been made for the result to be telegraphed to Northport, but for some reason has not been received.

The party consisted of A. E. Veness, Superintendent of the Yost Factory; C. W. Burgess, Assistant Superintendent; E. B. Veness, and J. Knecht, guests and the foremen of the works. M. J. Clabby, W. B. McKenney, R. Mueller, E. Brown, T. Reed, H. Cooper, W. B. Wines, G. H. Nelson, F. Willard, F. Fisher, G. C. Wright, H. Johnson.

Go Under Guard to Dying
Parent's Bedside in Wallingford.

Knapp, a prominent Greenwich citizen and a Brummer, the young military prisoner who saved his way out of Fort Hamilton and was captured in Greenwich two weeks ago, has received permission to visit his father. Major General Wood says, in response to Mr. Knapp's letter, that Brummer may so order. "I will guard to the place where his father is dying of tuberculosis, if the expense is paid by outsiders. Mr. Knapp has already forwarded the required money."
